Allowable Subject Matter

The following is an Examiner's statement of reason for allowance:

The Examiner has carefully considered the independent claims 1, 8, 9 and 15. The method and system for "providing a user interface control to modify properties of items within a main application window" as claimed was not taught or suggested by the prior arts. Although Angiulo et al. discloses rendering a pop-up menu, the menu having one or more menu item, receiving a menu-item mouse click upon one of the one or more menu items, determining an identify of a selected menu item from the location of the menu-item mouse click and applying the selected menu item (column 2, lines 30-65), however, none of the references teaches or suggests the features of modifying one or more control object properties in response to the properties input upon the properties portion of the control object which the control properties is applied to one or more selected items within the main application window in response to the selection input upon the selection portion of the control object and which the control object comprising a graphical icon having a selection portion and a properties portion with one or more controls.
